Sargent	Murray	Math in Office	Contains some posts about how I got into various things. Mostly it's about the RichEdit editor that I work on a lot at Microsoft and on aspects of the math editing and display facility that we've incorporated into the Microsoft Office applications.		murrays@exchange.microsoft.com
Schneider	Fred	schneiderjapanesecloisonne.com	It describes my involvement with Japanese art in general, and Japanese cloisonné-enamel in particular, with a focus on my book on the latter subject. The website was created when my book came out four years ago and needs updating and expansion; I hope to do that in the next few months to provide more information about this particular relatively-unknown and under-appreciated art.		xyzfritz@aol.com
Schofer	Joe	theinfrastructureshow.com	A podcast, The Infrastructure Show, on which we interview experts on various aspects of U.S. infrastructure, to explain how things work, address contemporary issues and problems, and innovative solutions. The podcast is technically based on my knowledge as a civil engineering professor, and we select guest on the basis of their knowledge and responsibilities. We cover transportation, buildings, water supply and waste water collection and treatment, energy, finance, innovation, and the impacts of natural and unnatural disasters on our infrastructure.	847 491-8795	j-schofer@northwestern.edu
Skol	Michael	www.ssadvisors.net	The Website of SKOL & SERNA, a U.S.-Colombian business consortium with offices in Washington and Bogotá (Colombia). We focus on counter-money laundering and anti-terrorist financing services for governments, international institutions, and corporations operating in Latin America.	917-843-9753	michael.skol@skol-serna.net ms@skolassociates.com
Skol	Michael	www.skol-grc.net	Website of SKOL & GRC, a U.S.-Colombian business consortium with offices in Washington and Bogotá, Colombia.
